President's message

Dale Cargile

Building Together for a Stronger Community

Hello, Innovators of North Idaho!
I trust this message finds you all invigorated with inspiration freshly imported from the heart of Las Vegas. Yes, I'm talking about the showcase of ingenuity at the International Builders Show where over 100 of North Idaho businesses set foot into the future of building!

First off—a resounding thank you! Your presence there didn't just magnify our regional footprint; it signified your commitment to the growth and excellence of our national association. You didn't just attend; you represented, engaged, and brought back insights primed to move us forward in the months to come.

Las Vegas was about placing bets on new, innovative strategies designed to transform the way we operate, build, and live. Rest assured, the strategic nuggets you've all collected are gearing up for their grand reveal. Stay tuned for details that will move us from blueprints to breakthroughs.

We had a Regional Cuscus where voices and perspectives from our tight-knit community shone through as we discussed the pressing challenges facing our industry—in our own backyard and beyond.

Together, we construct more than structures; we're building a legacy with innovation, sustainability, and connection. Thank you for bringing your best game to the table, and rolling the dice in favor of progress.

In gratitude and partnership,
Dale

The Cornerstone of Community Building: Why Engagement with Your HBA is Essential

Emily Bradley
Executive Officer

In the bustling world of construction and development, forging connections with those who share our professional interests is not just beneficial—it is essential for the growth and sustainability of our businesses and communities. Active engagement in your local Home Builders Association (HBA) offers numerous opportunities to build these connections, leverage collective knowledge, and voice your concerns and ideas. Here's why you should attend meetings, engage with other members, and listen to the community with intent and purpose.

Together We Can!

EDUCATION AND INSIGHT

The construction industry is ever-evolving with new technologies, materials, regulations, and consumer trends. Associations conduct seminars, workshops, and courses that keep you ahead of the curve. Active participation ensures you stay informed about the latest building techniques, legal changes, and market dynamics so that you can make knowledgeable decisions for your business.

VOICE AND ADVOCACY

One individual may struggle to be heard, but a collective voice cannot be easily ignored. HBAs advocate on behalf of their members for fair policies and regulations that affect the housing and construction sectors. Your engagement is crucial; it empowers your association to represent your interests effectively at the local, state, and national levels.

RECOGNITION AND CREDIBILITY

Being active in your HBA can also strengthen your reputation. These associations often recognize exceptional work and adherence to high standards among their members. A good standing in your HBA lends credibility to your business, reassuring clients of your commitment to quality and ethical practices. In turn, this can lead to more business opportunities and higher customer trust.

Membership in your Home Builders Association is more than a line on your company profile; it's a commitment to your professional growth and your community's well-being. Remember, the strength of a community lies in the engagement of its members.

Come to a General Member Meeting 3rd Wednesday of the month

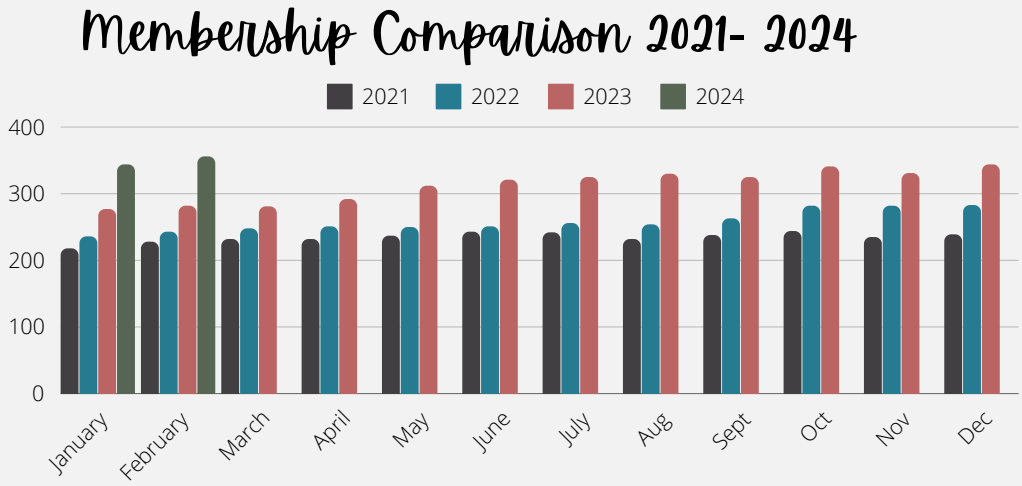

This is an opportunity for members to gather together and discuss important topics relevant to their interests. One of the key benefits of attending such a meeting is the opportunity to network with others in your field. By connecting with like-minded individuals, you can share ideas, gain insights into industry trends, and potentially from valuable new business relationships.

What is the SPIKE Club?

When it comes to growing our association, member-to-member recruitment and retention efforts are by far the largest source of growth. However, it's the SPIKEs that bring us grassroots growth and stability. What are SPIKEs, you ask? They're the membership leaders of our association – the ones who are building the voice, power, and influence of our organization on every level and in every state. Without them, we would struggle to maintain the momentum necessary to keep our face true to that of our industry, representing the diverse scope of interests that we proudly stand for. Thanks to these amazing members, we're able to keep our leadership pipeline strong while continuing to develop the general membership – making us more effective than ever before.

IMPACT OF SUBDIVISION DEVELOPMENT

7:45AM - 9:00AM

MAR 19

NIBCA
JOINT GOVERNMENT

Minor subdivision development is an intricate process that has a significant impact on various aspects of the community. The construction of new roads and subdivisions can bring about an influx of individuals to an area, causing a ripple effect on public services and infrastructure. The impact can be both positive and negative, with some citing increased economic activity and job creation while others note environmental concerns and congestion.

Join us to hear from a Panel of Experts on how this affects our local community.

Mike Bell

This year, NIBCA jumped in to a bigger partnership with one of the most important assets in our region, Kootenai Technical Education Center--KTEC, located in Rathdrum. Members Mike Bell and Cody Rauen meet with KTEC students monthly to oversee projects they are working on in the shop.

On Thursday, February 22, 14 students attending KTEC's Construction Program competed in a Skills USA competition to determine which students will attend the state competition in Nampa on April 3-5, 2024. Last year, a KTEC student won first place in the state and competed at the nationals Skills USA Competition in Atlanta and now works for Ginno Construction.

Students were required to read blueprints and frame a four-walled structure, with ridge board, rafters, and fascia, on a 42-inch square platform, within 4.5 hours. Student projects were judged by builders and inspectors, including NIBCA member Stan Hall. Members Nicole Jacklin (Berkshire Hathaway Home Services Jacklin Real Estate), Bridget Goodwin (STCU), and Joe Yetter (STCU) interviewed students to help prepare them for further competition. The top three students were each awarded a new skill saw, donated by Coeur d'Alene Code Enforcement.

Brian Davis, Construction teacher at KTEC, appreciates NIBCA member involvement with his students an the relationships being built. Some KTEC students are already working in the construction trades and are members of the Student Chapter of NIBCA. Students are in class two days a week and on the job site at the Habitat for Humanity homes in Coeur d'Alene earning apprenticeship hours, three days a week. One student, junior, Jack Pierce, from Lake City High School said "I didn't have any construction experience at the beginning of the school year. I've learned a lot, all from Mr. Davis." He plans to continue in the program and compete again next year. Senior Trevor Rodda, from Coeur d'Alene High School, has worked for Timbered Ridge Construction, said he did not do as well as he thought he would but also said that he has learned a lot about teamwork this year. He plans to continue his construction education in the NIC Construction Management program next year.

NIBCA members can get involved in workforce development by participating in the KTEC job Fair on March 15 or with Hard Hats, Hammers, & Hot Dogs on April 12. For more information, see the NIBCA calendar or check with Suzanne@NIBCA.com or call the office.

Another successful Coeur d'Alene Home & Garden Show has wrapped up. Our heartfelt gratitude goes out to our sponsors, vendors, and volunteers for their invaluable contributions to this year's event. Without each and every one of you, this would not have been possible. I'm proud to say that we had 63 members at the show this year!

This year, more than 100 individuals had a wonderful time at our first Vendor/Member Soiree. Special thanks to Carpet Warehouse/Color Tile for sponsoring the event, and to Amie Pace, Rod Underhill, and Joe and Angela Spaulding and the Home & Garden Show Committee for organizing a fantastic evening. The positive feedback from vendors and attendees was truly uplifting!

As we shift our focus to Sandpoint for our upcoming show on April 6 & 7, there is plenty to prepare. If you are interested in volunteering in Sandpoint, please contact Karen at the NIBCA office. We look forward to welcoming many of you to our 2nd annual Sandpoint Home & Garden Show. Show your support for NIBCA by liking our Facebook event and inviting your friends. Admission is free with a donation for the Bonner County Food Bank. Look for more information coming up in What's up Wednesday each week!

Looking ahead to 2025, we will soon begin planning. If you wish to get involved at the committee level, please reach out to me. For those interested in sponsorship or showcasing your business with a vendor booth, stay tuned for more details. Vendor applications will be released to NIBCA members shortly. Keep an eye on What's Up Wednesday and the monthly Newsletter to ensure you stay informed and don't miss out!

Did you Know?

Justin Hoffman

The North Idaho Building Contractors Association (NIBCA) has partnered with the Idaho Home Builders Association (IHBA) and the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) to introduce an exciting new recruitment initiative for young professionals in the construction sector. Aspiring leaders in the industry can benefit from a reduced fee offered by all three associations, with the condition that they commit to a five-year membership with NIBCA. In return for their dedication, these emerging professionals will gain access to various training programs and mentorship opportunities focused on leadership development, aiding in their career progression. Enrolling in this program presents a fantastic opportunity to kickstart a career in construction and engage with like-minded individuals who share a passion for the industry.

Looking to put your business in the spotlight? Think about hosting a Young Professional Social event where you can present your business, your services, and your vision.

MAKE A REQUEST FOR THE BEST

The Sandpoint committee is abuzz with activity, and we are excited to share an exclusive preview of the upcoming events. Our goal is to boost awareness of the North Idaho Building Contractors Association (NIBCA) in Sandpoint and beyond through a series of engaging and inspiring community events.

- Sandpoint Home and Garden Show on April 6 & 7
- Parade of Homes: In September, we present our hallmark event – the Parade of Homes. It goes beyond a mere display; it's a tribute to architectural prowess, innovative design, and cutting-edge construction methods. Explore the unique properties in Sandpoint, each reflecting comfort, sustainability, and style.

Our committee serves as your portal to the finest offerings in our community. These events are tailored for our members, fostering unity and highlighting our shared passions. We are more than a committee; we are a growing family, eager for you to join us on this year's journey. Stay tuned for event updates and ways to engage in these exceptional experiences.

Your active participation is key to NIBCA's success. Whether you're a long-standing member or new to our community, your involvement is vital. Let's collaborate, unite, and celebrate together!

The spring is kicking off to a great start with sold out events all around.... We can feel the excitement!! Our Women in the Workshop series is going strong, and we are gearing up for more fun and beneficial events in the months to come. The April Welding workshop is sold out with a wait list, and our March GMM lunch will be a packed room of members and guests coming to listen to our president Dale Cargile speak.

International Builder's Show: What an incredible week full of amazing connections, and great information. At the national meetings this year, the Professional Women in Building Headquarters was packed full of classes, panel discussions, and networking opportunities galore. We came back fueled up with inspiration, good ideas to steal, and gusto!

Watch out for these upcoming events:

- April 12 PWB GMM lunch (Noon at Seasons) - Speaker Sandy Young of Verdis Inc, nationally renowned and local woman business owner
- April 23 Women's Wealth Workshop - details on next page

What is PWB?

PWB (Professional Women in Building) is a council of NAHB, and exists to support our association at the local, state and national level. This organization serves to support the efforts of NIBCA and promote opportunities for women in the industry. The national mission of PWB is to be the voice of women in the building industry. Through education, professional development, and networking opportunities, PWB helps members acquire and develop invaluable leadership and business management skills that boost career success.

Who can join PWB? Anyone who is an employee of an NIBCA member company!! Men can be members too! We welcome everyone!
Fun Fact: North Idaho has one of the largest PWB memberships nationwide!! Join us!

When does PWB meet? We have monthly meetings – lunches with speakers, or socials. We also have regular volunteer opportunities to support NIBCA and the community, and we put on Women in the Workshop events. NAHB PWB provides resources to members for professional development, peer support, networking, and a Women in Residential Construction conference yearly. So many reasons to join! How do I join? Membership costs $60 per year, and you can submit your application through the NIBCA office.
